Business Licenses - Frequently Asked Questions

Registering a Business

Who Must Register Their Business? <http://corporations.utah.gov/whyregs.html>

All businesses in Utah are required by law to register with the Utah Department of Commerce.

Registration of assumed business names, often called "DBA" (Doing Business As) is required of all businesses that are not corporations, limited liability companies or limited partnerships, which register their names within their Articles of Incorporation/Organization or Certificates of Limited Partnership. Generally, businesses must also obtain a business license from the city or county in which they are located.

Why Are Businesses Required by Law to Register?

Registration allows the business owner to have the name on file so the owner's business name should not be used by another business. This registration provides you with use of your exact business name. The more you use it and become known to the public by name, the more legal protection your name earns against "predatory encroachment" by other businesses.

Registration is required so that a comprehensive state registry of all business and corporate information is available for public reference. This information is vital to an orderly legal system and marketplace. Without it, the public or other businesses have no way of knowing the persons with whom they are doing business.

Registration is required by law to provide notice to the public of who owns or stands behind a business entity. You cannot file a lawsuit in court as a business if your business is not registered. Registration enables careful business people to verify information about companies with whom they do business.
